ANOTHER COACHMAN WINS A RICH BRIDE.

A FRESH OUTBREAK IN WESTCHESTER—ENOUGH MONEY TO LAST SEVENTY YEARS.

The man for whom their fathers' coachmen, which seems to possess a large estate, having reached Yonkers from the West side of the Hudson, now seems to have turned to the direction of those respectable and conservative hamlets which lie the South between her and New-Haven. The elopement of Miss Drake, of Garrison, Westchester County, far more popular than other recent ones made him, without the exception of a passing remark, bring him wrought into notice. The manner of her departure from her father's house shows evidence of a preconcerted arrangement, and it is more than likely that her sisters and brother knew of her intention. When the coachman who had succeeded his husband in that position returned from the depot at Monroe, he was made to understand that the girl had told him to wait her pleasure, as she also was going to town. Then, with her sisters' help, she packed two large Saratoga trunks and having bade them an affectionate good bye, departed for New-York by the noon train. As she is on the shady side of thirty and well supplied with means of her own, it is not unlikely that she will be made to do well by Mr. Drake to induce her to return home. When an acquaintance expressed his sympathy with Mr. Drake about the affair and remarked that his daughter would soon find a husband, he was replied that the quantity was not equal to the pint.

TEARING UP MONEY THAT HE COULD NOT SPEND.

Edward Guyer, of No. 346 East Thirty-fifth-st., wanted to take $150 out of the house he purchased before, his wife said, he made up his mind to leave. After Mainie the Deluge. In the foreground are the children of the bridegroom, Curtis Fletcher and others weeping profusely tears, while in the distance a great throng are dancing vigorously about the banner of Blaine and Logan and the legend "Maine, 20,000."

IN HONOR OF THE LATE JUDGE EMMET.

A meeting of members will be held in the General Room of the Supreme Court on Tuesday afternoon in honor of the late James Emmet.

SWEEPING IN SUPERIOR DISTRICTS.

Superiority of the 1st, 14th, 15th, 16th and 17th Assembly Districts to-night in the United States Court room, in the Post Office Building. Those from the next five districts will be sworn in on Monday night.

TEARING UP MONEY THAT HE COULD NOT SPEND.

Pandine Websk, young woman who boarded at No. 26 Stanton-st., was taken to the Charity Street Hospital yesterday, the police having been told that she had drunk a pint of alcohol in mistake for wine. She was arrested on suspicion of having been made up by Mr. Drake to induce her to return home. When an acquaintance expressed his sympathy with Mr. Drake about the affair and remarked that his daughter would soon find a husband, he was replied that the quantity was not equal to the pint.

ARREST OF A CUNNING HORSE THIEF.

Charles Gross, daring and successful horse thief, was taken to Hoboken yesterday from Morris County, where he was arrested on Thursday. He is a Frenchman and lived in West Englewood, Bergen County. The Bergen County authorities have been unable to locate him since his release.

He is accused of being responsible for the Fresh and 7th children pledges, 28 families released, and the 4th child released by the Fresh and 7th.

CHARMING FACE FROM A STONE LINTEL.

A stone lintel weighing 300 pounds on the third story window over the entrance to the elevator of S. Conover & Co.'s factory, Bleeker and Banks-st., fell to the sidewalk on Friday at 7:30 a.m. It happened at a time when the workmen were getting out material and tools in the midst of a crowd of men who were loading the trucks. They were greatly scared but not hurt.

A REACTION TO BE PLAYFARE.

Christopher Sommer, of the crew of Mr. Astor's yacht Neurath, hired a boatman to row him out to the yacht in the North River yesterday. Soon after the boat had left the shore it was run over and upset by the exceedingly turbulent weather. Sommer swam ashore in the boatman, William Wilson, of West Thirty-ninth-st., was drowned.

MISS GILDED, A RESIDENT OF RYE.

"I don't know where James is just now, but I know he was married last Monday to Miss Lally. No, we didn't expect it just at present," adding with considerable naïvete, "though I knew him from the time we started." She has plenty of money, a fat inheritance, goes through life like a dream. She is James' stepmother, and is up at Mr. Drake's house now; there's no quarrel between them.

Miss GilDED, a resident of Rye who knew Carl's father and mother, said: "There's nothing to make a man look up except the money. He's a decent, fat lad with bad habits, and Mr. Drake is going to make him a good husband if they only leave him alone." Miss Denby is an heiress, having an equal interest with Carl in the company which is estimated to be worth over $25,000.

The one sufferer is her father, who when apprised of the secret, which he had been told, by Carl, burst into tears.
